23 to Face Action by Grand Jury

HARRISBURG (UP) — Dauphin County Court today directed District Attorney Huette F. Dowling to submit bills of indictment to the regular grand jury against all 23 persons cited in the investigation of an alleged multi-million dollar Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission swindle.

Dowling said the bills will be drawn up and submitted to the regular January session of the grand jury before the end of the week.

The court, sitting en banc, rejected an oral motion by attorneys for G. Franklin McSorley, Pittsburgh Democrat and present commission chairman, to quash the special grand jury presentment against McSorley, returned Friday.

McSorley was charged with "willfully and corruptly" permitting a turnpike commission employe to serve as chauffeur for former commission chairman Thomas J. Evans, Coaldale Republican, after Evans had left the agency.

Torrance Cited

Attorney Carl L. Shelly, Harrisburg, representing McSorley, argued that any case against his client did not arise out of the original charges leveled by former state Attorney General Herbert B Cohen. But the court indicated the original requests were for a grand jury to consider all matters of malfeasance and misfeasance on the commission.

The three jurists recommending the presentments were Acting President Judge William H. Neely, and Judges Walter R. Sohn and Homer L. Kreider.

Evans, who preceded McSorley as commission chairman, and James F. Torrance, Export, the lone Republican on the commission and its former secretary, headed the list of 22 persons cited for conspiracy in the alleged swindle, the two also were charged with misconduct in office.

McSorley was not implicated in the alleged swindle.

$9 Million Involved

The indictment recommendations climaxed 36 days of testimony in an investigation sparked by the Democratic state administration last September when it charged the then GOP controlled commission was defrauded of more than $9,000,000 through contracts held by the Manu-Mine Research and Development Corp., Reading, for filling in abandoned coal mines under the Northeastern Extension. The contracts were subsequently cancelled by the administration who claimed the conspiracy aimed at defrauding the commission of some $19,500,000.

The recommended indictment of McSorley was on a relatively minor charge but may cost him his job. An appointee of Gov. George M. Leader, he was designated chairman when the Democrats took charge of the agency last May. The jurors said McSor-

Two Arrested By Constable on Bad Check Charge

Two district men already accused of passing worthless checks in Washington County were arrested Saturday night by Rostraver Township Constable Harry Weightman on a similar charge.

Free on $500 bond today after spending a night in Monessen City Jail are James Rocco, 353 Van Pelt street, Donora; and Emmett C. Merrith, 700 Jenny Lind street, McKeesport.

They will face a hearing tonight before Squire William Overand in Webster.

According to Weightman, the men cashed a worthless check at a Webster business house last year.

Both Rocco and Merrith were arrested for cashing $450 worth of bad checks in Washington County communities last November. Merrith also faces a similar charge in Allegheny County.

Red Leader Gomulka Wins Polish Election

WARSAW (UP) — Communist Party Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka, fortified by his victory in Sunday's national elections, is expected today to waste little time in sweeping out the last of the die-hard Stalinists from party ranks.

Official results of the parliamentary elections will not be known until Tuesday. But all indications pointed to an overwhelming popular vote of confidence in the rebellious Communist leader who severed Poland's tightly-knit dependency on Moscow.

Ther was a surprisingly heavy turnout of voters for the crucial elections. Gomulka had warned a defeat for his candidates would "cross out the independence of our country, (and) cross out Poland from the map of Europe."

It was a straight-from-the-shoulder warning that the still-strong Stalinist element within the party was hoping he would fall. It was also a frank reminder to the anti-Communists that failure to support his candidates could mean a Hungarian-type bloodbath in Poland.

Unofficial results showed from 91 to 96 per cent of the 17.5 million eligibe voters cast ballots, apparently spurred by Gomulka's warnings and the get-out-and-vote drive by the Roman Catholic Church.

The Polish news agency PAP said 95.25 per cent of the electorate participated in Gomulka's own constituency of Praga in Warsaw. It said incomplete unofficial returns gave Gomulka 99.5 per cent of the valid ballots.

Second with 98.4 per cent was "independent" Jerzy Hryniewiecki, third with 98.3 per cent was Jerzy Zawieyski, a Catholic activist who ran with the probable support of Roman Catholic Primate Stefan Cardinal Wyszinsky.

The entire Polish press hailed the election as a resounding vote of confidence for Gomulka and his independent Communism.

Donora Service Station Held Up Last Night

Two armed thugs held up a Donora gasoline station last night about 9 o'clock and escaped with approximately $150 in cash, Donora Police Chief John Pykosh reported today.

According to the chief, two men drove into the Major Gas Station at Eighth street and Meldon avenue and asked the attendant, Thomas Zborowski, 16, of 215 Seneca street, Monessen, to change a five dollar bill.

As the youth reached into his pocket to make change, one of the thugs pointed a gun at him and said "hand over all of it." Zborowski did as ordered.

The men then sped away before the youth could obtain the license number of the getaway car.

BOUND FOR HISTORIC MOMENT — President and Mrs. Eisenhower are accompanied by Mrs. Barbara Eisenhower (right), wife of their son John, as the White House limousine rolls to the executive mansion for the historic oath-taking ceremony. In family privacy, President Eisenhower stood before Chief Justice Earl Warren, placed his left hand on the Bible his mother gave him when he was graduated from West Point and took the oath of office for a second term.

State Will Have Big Inaugural Contingent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Almost 3,000 Pennsylvanians ranging from those high in government and politics to average citizens, converged on the nation's capital today to share in the colorful inauguration ceremonies that will start their adopted son, President Eisenhower, on his second term.

They came by plane, 10 special trains and motorcades from all parts of the Commonwealth. For most it was a one-day expedition and for a comparatively select few the climax of a weekend of pre-inaugural festivities.

The Keystone State contingent purchased more than $25,000 worth of seats for the inaugural parade, or 2,700 of the 50,000 seats available. In addition, the state will be well represented in the inaugural stand during the swearing-in ceremonies by lawmakers, both on the state and federal level, and other Republican leaders.

Pennsylvania did its best to make its No. 1 citizen feel at home even though away from his beloved Gettysburg farm.

State in Float

The Pennsylvania float, carrying a stylized map of the state and adorned with 25,000 mountain laurel, featured as its centerpiece in the shape of a keystone a scale model of the President's farm, including all the buildings, the new driveway and the putting green.

The Gettysburg High School Band was assigned the role of leading the Citizens for Eisenhower section; the band front of Gettysburg College the honor of carrying the "Pennsylvania" banner in front of the state's parade units.

While virtually all the Pennsylvanians attending the inaugural were Republicans, the official state representative was a democrat—Maj. Gen. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, state adjutant general. He was designated by Democratic Gov. George M. Leader.

Parade rules limited all states to three units. In addition to the float, Pennsylvania had the 50-

Firemen Honor Two Members at Annual Banquet

The Monessen Volunteer Fire Department and Relief Association conferred life membership upon two of its veteran members as a highlight of its annual banquet at the Twin Coaches Saturday night.

So honored were John Molnar, a City councilman, and Frank Lombardo, both of whom have had 25 years of service as firemen. Lombardo was ill and unable to be present for the award.

The firemen also conferred honorary life membership upon several industrial and utility officials and civic leaders..

Mayor Hugo J. Parente in a brief talk congratulated the Fire Department on a long record of achievement, both in fighting fire and in promoting civic progress.

The Mayor spoke of his administration's latest program of improvements for Monessen and urged that all citizens join as "volunteers" behind it.

President Eino Kalvesmaki presided at the dinner and Thomas F. Preston was the toastmaster. Department Chaplain Louis Miller, Jr., gave the invocation and benediction.

Banquet arrangements were made by a large committee headed by Alex D'Altorio and E. A. Leinbach as co-chairmen.

Members' wives and members of the Firemen's Auxiliary were among the guests.

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)— An attorney for Mrs. Anna Komar, Monessen, filed a motion for a new trial today, claiming damages awarded her for injuries in an automobile accident were inadequate.

A Westmoreland County jury awarded Mrs. Komar $457 after a three-day trial in her action against Rupert Arter, Farrell, Pa. The plaintiff sought damages of more than $2,500 for injuries she said she suffered Feb. 27, 1953, when struck by Arter's car in Monessen.

Believes U. S. Can Be Healing Force in World

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower today pledged the second term of his administration to energetic pursuit of world peace.

He promised to seek the creation of an international climate in which "the nations cease to live in trembling before the menace of force."

Prayerfully, the Chief Executive in a relatively short inaugural address about 2,000 words said he believed the United States could be a major, contributory force to healing the divisions of the modern world.

"This, nothing less, is the labor to which we are called and our strength dedicated."

The Chief Executive said the principle source of world turmoil today was international Communism, but he expressed the belief that Communist forces had been severely shaken by the revolt in Hungary. He said he thought recent events in Hungary demonstrated to the world "the readiness of men who love freedom to pledge their lives to that love."

Thousands Hear Message

Mr. Eisenhower spoke before massed thousands in front of the Capitol building shortly after he and Vice President Richard M. Nixon publicly took their oaths of office.

Inauguration day dawned chilly and damp. But a drizzly rain that fell during the night ended with sunrise and patches of blue appeared in the overcast. By noon the morning chill had been replaced by mild temperatures. The sun sent an occasional shaft over the scene of the ceremony at the east steps of the Capitol.

The oath-taking was a repetition of the private ceremony held Sunday in the White House before 80 relatives and close friends of the 66-year-old President and the 44-year-old vice president.

The President's address climaxed the solemn and ceremonious aspects of the inauguration, 43rd in the nation's history. After it came a 2½ hour parade, led by Mr. Eisenhower from the Capitol to the White House. The national jubilee which marks the quadrennial occasion started Saturday afternoon and will be concluded with festive balls starting tonight and continuing into the small hours of Tuesday.

"We voice our hope and our belief that we can help to heal this divided world," the President said. "Thus may the nations cease to live in trembling before the menace of force. Thus may the weight of fear and the weight of arms be taken from the burdened shoulders of mankind."

Top Reds Unmentioned

The President made a particular point of extending an expression of potential American friendship to the people of Russia. He did not, however, include the leaders of the Soviet Union in this friendly phase of his message.

The President said that the people of this country "honor, no less, in this divided world than in a less tormented time, the people of Russia." The President wished the Russians success in educational and industrial development, greater intellectual freedom and security, and "fuller enjoyment of the rewards of their own toil."

"For as such things may come to pass," he added, "the more

Ike Uses 33rd Chapter, Psalms At Inauguration

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower selected verse 12 of the 33rd chapter of Pslams as the Biblical passage on which to rest his hand in taking his oath for a second term.

It reads:

Blessed is the nation whose god is the Lord; and the people whom He had chosen from His own inheritance."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon selected the fourth verse of the second chapter of Isaiah, which reads:

"And He shall judge among the nations: and shall rebuke many people: and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

The President used a Bible given to him by his late mother when he was graduated from the U.S. Military Academy in West Point in 1915.

Nixon used a Bible that belonged originally to his great, great grandparents, William and Martha Milhous. The Bible was a King James Version printed in 1829.

Co-sponsored in the county by the VFW and American Legion, the parade has been acclaimed as one of the most successful moves to counter the annual May Day demonstrations held by the Communists.

He discovered the attempt when he went to the store yesterday about 4:30 p. m.

The burglar tried to force open a back door but was unsuccessful.

Austria Hits 'Invasion' By Hungarian Guards

VIENNA (UP)—The Austrian government was reported drafting today a strong protest against the "invasion" by armed Communist Hungarian border guards in pursuit of refugees from their Soviet-dominated homeland.

At least 30 Hungarian guards crossed about 200 feet into Austria Sunday and opened fire on 20 men, women and children who had slipped through the Iron Curtain. All but one were herded at gunpoint back into Hungary.

The one Hungarian to escape reached freeom with a Communist bullet in his back. He identified himself as a former Hungarian soldier who fought against Soviet tanks and troops in the battle of Budapest.

It was the first violation since Nov. 23 when three Russian soldiers chased a Hungarian girl refugee into Austria. Austrian border guards shot and killed one of the Russians and captured another.

The new incident had dangerous political implications for Austria which has opened its frontiers to nearly 170,000 refugees since the October freedom revolt erupted in Hungary.

Last Friday, Interior Minister Oskar Helmer warned that the refugees posed a tricky political problem for neutral Austria. He stressed Vienna is only 36 miles from the Communist soldiers guarding the Iron Curtain.

Helmer said Austria feared a new influx of refugees as a result of the brutal police-state policy of puppet Premier Janos Kadar.

Kadar now has silenced every potential opposing voice in Hungary. He has outlawed the revolutionary councils, the regional workers councils and cracked down on the writers association and the journalists unions.

USW Appeals Rejected By Executive Board

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The executive board of the United Steelworkers has rejected the appeals of three members of an anti-administration group from the refusal of the international tellers to place them on the ballot for next month's union election.

Notices of rejection were sent to Frank W. O'Brien, Pittsburgh; Walter Ross, Baden, Pa., and Walter Bocek, McKeesport, Pa., all supporters of Don C. Rarick, who is opposing USW President David J. McDonald for re-election.

O'Brien sought nomination for director of District 16 South Side Pittsburgh - McKees Rocks. He contended he had received endorsement by seven locals, two more than required by the USW constitution.

Ross sought a place on the ballot as candidate for director of District 20 Ambridge and Bocek for delegate to the AFL-CIO convention. They also claimed endorsement by the required number of local unions.

The international board of tellers ruled none of the three men had received sufficient valid nominations. O'Brien brought legal action to force his name on the ballot, but withdrew it when the executive board consented to hear appeals and appointed a commission to hold hearings at Chicago. The denial of the appeals followed.

Rarick, McKeesport millworker, said the appeals were "wasted effort" and he believed the executive board had no "intention of giving us a fair and square hearing."

A program on Civil Defense and National Security followed the business session at the meeting of Belle Vernon American Legion Auxiliary to Post 659 on Friday evening.

Guest speakers were Jos Zahrobsky, director of the Public Information office of Civil Defense in Westmoreland County and Betty Keefner, deputy director.

The meeting was in charge of the president Mrs. Inez Lehew. Colors were advanced by Mary Bashada, sargent-at-arms, the assemblage joined in the pledge to the flag and opening prayer was offered by Elma Wisyansk., unit chaplain.

Routine reports were heard and reports given by the various committee chairmen. It was voted to aid a needy local family and to sponsor a card party for the Girl Scout Neighborhood Committee in the near future.

Plans were made for a ravioli supper to be held in the Legion Home with the date to be announced.

It was also agreed to sponsor a card party on Thursday evening, Feb. 7, for the benefit of the March of Dimes drive. The proceeds will be divided between Fayette and Westmoreland counties.

A successful report was given by Mrs. Bashada on the past month's card parties and announcement made that Mrs. Lehew will serve as chairman of the committee in charge for the coming month.

One new Junior member was accepted by the unit at this time and Bertha Aru, membership chairman, announced the unit's paid up membership to date at 284 or 13 over quota.

Members were urged to continue saving coupons and bring them to the Legion home or contact the chairman, Mercy Green. The Department coupon project this year will aid retarded children.

The program for the evening was planned by Mrs. Mary Ferrari, Department sub-chairman of National Security; Mrs. Frances Riskey, unit National Security chairman and Mrs. Elizabeth Fundy, unit chairman of Civil Defense.

WHICH BOY PASSED THE N. P.* TEST?

*NINETY PERCENT

The poised young man at the right of course. You can tell at a glance . . . and that's why the Ninety-Percent Test is so important. Adults judge even children (and children judge each other) by what they see. It's true that clothes may create slightly less than 90% of the impression Juniors make, but the test is just as important.

Another point to remember: Because children's clothes become so grimy so quickly, it's especially important to have them drycleaned regularly and often. (This kind of care carries a built-in bonus. In addition to looking fresher, drycleaned clothes last longer.)

Snow Warning for Western States

East Thawing Out from Cold Wave; California Gets Rain

By UNITED PRESS

Weathermen warned of heavy snow and blizzard conditions in portions of the plains states today in the party of a widespread storm system that doused California with a beneficial $10 million rain.

The East, meanwhile, thawed out from one of the worst cold waves in years.

The western storm swirled out of the Pacific Sunday, and dumped one to three inches of snow over eastern Washington, North Dakota and the Central Rockies.

Salt Lake City was blanked with a 4-inch snowfall, and up to 20 inches buried some mountain areas.

Weathermen said the storm will whip into a blizzard as it moves out of the Rockies into the northern and central plains today.

Rain to the south brought relief to drought-stricken California rangelands. Agricultural officials figured the rain was worth $10 million to cattle and sheep ranchers who have been buying hay at $30 to $35 a ton or selling lean animals.

A surge of cold air penetrated the far north from Montana to Minnesota, but weathermen said the air mass wasn't as frigid as the one that sent much of the nation into a deep freeze last week.

Mild winds that brought moderating temperatures to the Midwest during the weekend pushed into the Atlantic Coast states, boosting overnight temperatures 10 to 30 degrees higher than the night before.

Above freezing temperatures extended as far north as southern New England, with the greatest warming occurring in Pennsylvania and New York state. Albany, N.Y., reported an early morning ready of 35 as compared with one below at the same time Sunday.

Temperatures continued mild in most of the Midwest where readings were above freezing as far north as the Great Lakes.

Some early morning readings included Boston 38, Detroit 36, Nashville 45, Miami 71, New Orleans 61, Duluth 21, Denver 46, Los Angeles 49 and Seattle 25.

Peace

certain will be the coming of that day when our peoples may freely meet in friendship."

The President gave his second inaugural address a specific title—"The Price Of Peace."

He explained his reasons for accenting this point:

"Splendid as can be the blessings of such a peace, high will be its cost; in toil patiently sustained, in help honorably given, in sacrifice calmly borne."

"We are called to meet the price of this peace," he said.

Cost Will Be High

"To counter the threat of those who seek to rule by force," he continued, "we must pay the costs of our own needed military strength, and to help to build the security of others. We must use our skills and knowledge and, at times, our substance to help others rise from misery, however far the scene of suffering may be from our shores."

The President dealt at length with his belief that the nations of the world have become increasingly interdependent, with mutual responsibility extending far beyond the borders of a single country.

He said that the economic needs of all countries made isolation "an impossibility."

"Not even America's prosperity could long survive if other nations did not also prosper," he said. 'No nation can longer be a fortress, lone and strong and safe. And any people, seeking such shelter for themseves, can now build only their prison."

Asks U.N. Buildup

The President pointed out that the United States must recognize her "deep involvement in the destiny of men everywhere" and accordingly, should attempt to strengthen the authority of the United Nations.

"In that body rests the best hope of our age for the assertion of that law by which all nations may live in dignity," he said.

The President ignored domestic problems except as they are related to the international scene. He concentrated instead on peace.

The stately inaugural ceremony was followed by a 2½-hour parade down Pennsylvania Avenue featuring 65 bands, 34 lavish floats and a muscular display of the new military weapons backing up Mr. Eisenhower's plea for world peace.

piece Valley Forge Military Academy Band, and the 40-member mounted horse troop of the state police marching eight abreast.

The front of the $4,500 float was a reproduction of Fort Pitt surrounded by the new buildings of Pittsburgh's Golden Triangle. The top and rear had reproductions of Independence Hall and the Liberty Bell.

The girls on the float, headed by Lorna Ringler, Upper Darby, Miss Pennsylvania of 1956, included Jeanette Barthall, Royersford; Barbara Edmundson, Pittsburgh; Patty McClay, Mt. Lebanon, and Sally A. Heim, Harrisburg, attired in colonial costumes.

Three sisters from Red Lion, all champion baton twirlers, were chosen to march in front of the float. They were Alta Burg, 22, world champion; Joyce, 16, state high school champion, and Dawn, 19, national one-baton titleholder.

Assigned to march with the U.S. Naval Academy detachment were about 100 members of the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps at Pennsylvania State University.

War Heroes Present

Three Pennsylvania holders of the Congressional Medal of Honor were guests of the inaugural committee to attend all events. After the parade, retired Admiral Joel T. Boone, St. Clair; Oscar Schmidt of York, and Robert E. Laws, Altoona, will attend the ball at the National Guard Armory.

A Cumberland County couple, Mr. and Mrs. N. David Keefer, Jr., Mechanicsburg RD 1, attended the ceremonies as the personal guests of the President and Mrs. Eisenhower. Keefer, a mailman, said he presented Mr. Eisenhower with some mallard ducks for his farm pond two years ago and landscaped the pond. He received the White House invitation "with warm personal regards" the day after Christmas.

The 10 special trains left Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Easton early today, making stops along the route to pick up other groups.

The train leaving Harrisburg at 6 30 a.m., under the supervision of Oliver J. Dickey, Cumberland County GOP chairman, carried more than 500 persons, including some members of the Legislature.

Edward L. Flaherty, Allegheny County Republican chairman led a contingent from Pittsburgh in one train, and Young Republicans of Pennsylvania went in another.

Special trains from Philadelphia carried more than 600 Pennsylvanians, including 300 under the auspices of the Republican City Committee and 250 members of the Republican Women of Pennsylvania.

Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom held a reception on the roof garden of the Hotel Washington Sunday, while Gen Biddle represented Gov. Leader at the governor's reception at the Statler Hotel.

NEWSMEN TOLD OF OATH-TAKING — White House correspondents, barred from President Eisenhower's Sunday oath-taking ceremony, are later filled in on the details by Press Secretary James Hagerty (sitting) who described the historic ritual. In contrast with the Monday inauguration ceremony expected to be witnessed by more than 750,000 persons, Mr. Eisenhower took the oath of office for a second term before some 80 persons including his family and staff members.

Highlight Quotations From Ike's Address

WASHINGTON (UP)—Highlight quotations from President Eisenhower's second inaugural address, "The Price of Peace":

"We declare our firm and fixed purpose—the building of a peace with justice in a world where moral law prevails.

"The building of such a peace is a bold and solemn purpose To proclaim it is easy. To serve it will be hard And to attain it we must be aware of its full meaning —and ready to pay its full price."

"We recognize and accept our own deep involvement in the destiny of men everywhere . . .

'No people can live to itself alone The unity of all who dwell in freedom is their only sure defense . .

"No nation can longer be a fortress, lone and strong and safe And any people seeking such shelter for themselves, can now build only their prison"

"We must use our skills and knowledge and, at times, our substance, to help others rise from misery however far the scene of such suffering may be from our shores . . .

"To counter the threat of those who seek to rule by force we must pay the costs of our own needed military strength, and help to build the security of others"

"We live in a land of plenty but rarely has this earth known such peril as today . . This is not time to ease or rest.

"In too much of the earth there is want, discord danger

"From the deserts of North Africa to the islands of the South Pacific one-third of all mankind has entered upon an historic struggle for a new freedom: freedom from grinding poverty . . . Germany still stands tragically divided So is the whole continent divided. And so, too, is all the world.

"The divisive force is international Communism and the power that it controls The designs of that power, dark in purpose are clear in practice It strives to seal forever the fate of those it has enslaved. It strives to break the ties that unite the free"

"The world of international Communism has itself been shaken by a fierce and mighty force The readiness of men who love freedom to pledge their lives to that love Through the night of their bondage, the unconquerable will of heroes has struck with the swift sharp thrust of lightning Budapest is no longer merely the name of a city, henceforth it is a new and shining symbol of men's yearning to be free . . .

"We can never turn our back to them"

"We honor . . the people of Russia We do not dread, rather do we welcome, their progress in education and industry We wish them success in their demands for more intellectual freedom, greater security . . . fuller enjoyment for the rewards of their toil For as such things come to pass, the more certain will be the coming of that day when our peoples may freely meet in friendship."

"We seek, upon our common labor as a nation, the favor of Almighty God . . .

"May we pursue the right — without self-righteousness

"May we know unity — without conformity.

"May we grow in strength— without pride of self

"May we, in our dealings with all peoples of the earth, ever speak truth and serve justice . .

"May the light of freedom, coming to all darkened lands, flame brightly—until at last the darkness is no more."

Fortune in Gems Sought After Damaging Fire

PHILADELPHIA (UP)— A fortune in gems was sought today in the ruins left by a nine alarm fire which wrecked a five story center city building last Dec. 28.

City workmen who began removal of the debris were joined by nine merchants who had quarters in the diamond center of Philadelphia on the building's ground floor when fire destroyed the structure.

Preliminary estimates indicated jewelry worth from $100,000 to $1 million may be in the ruins.

The flames spread so rapidly only a few of the jewelers could salvage merchandise. Some left gems in display cases and on shelves as they fled. Others left safe doors unlocked

The fire burned through the upper floors and roof, causing their collapse to the ground floor. It smouldered for almost 30 hours, preventing the merchants' return to their shops.

Sixty police were detailed to the building the night after the fire to permit merchants to enter. Only two were able to reach their safes.

10 Persons Are Killed in Weekend Auto Accidents

Warm Weather Fails to Bring Heavy Traffic

By UNITED PRESS

Pennsylvania had its warmest weather of the year Sunday, but motorists, wary after a week of bad weather, took to the roads in only light numbers.

A United Press survey showed 10 persons were killed in traffic accidents in the state in the period from 6 p m. Friday to Sunday midnight. In the worst mishap, a New York Navy man and his wife were killed in a collision near Altoona Sunday night.

Temperature readings in the high 30s and the 40s melted much of the snow on highways. In Erie County, which had more than a foot of snow in places, secondary roads became very slushy.

The fatalities:

Altoona: Alexander Szell, 21, and his wife, Norma, 20, Waterville, N.Y., were killed when their auto collided with a tractor-trailer at the intersection of Routes 22 and 220 near Duncansville, seven miles south of here. Thomas L. Conrad, 27, of Harrisburg, the driver of the truck, was not injured. Szell, a Navy man stationed at Norfolk, Va, was attempting a left turn off Route 22 onto Route 220 when the truck, also traveling on Route 22, smashed into the car The couple was thrown from the car and Mrs. Szell was dragged 300 feet by the truck

Philadelphia: Mrs. Rose Aaronson, 67, a widow, was killed Sunday night when she was struck by an auto as she stepped from between two parked cars. Police said the woman, a resident of a convalescent home, had nearly $2,000 pinned to her clothing.

Pittsburgh: Anthony Mankowski, 25, Pittsburgh, was injured fatally Sunday when his car struck the rear of a trolley on the Sixth Street Bridge.

Tarentum: Benjamin T. Smith, 50, Tarentum, was killed five miles from here in Butler County when his auto upset on a connecting road between Routes 28 and 356. He was Butler County's first traffic fatality of the year.

Bradford: Shirley Hall, 18, Bradford, was killed in a collision of two automobiles Saturday. She was McKean County's first traffic fatality of 1957. Police said she was riding in a car driven by James L. Kahle, 26, of Bradford, which was struck broadside by an auto operated by James Pacarella, 17, also of Bradford.

East Vandergrift: Casimer Paschis, 69, Vandergrift, was killed Friday night when he was struck by a Pennsylvania Railroad locomotive at a grade crossing here.

Harrisburg: Elvin D. Bittner, 87, Harrisburg, was killed Sunday when his automobile struck two parked cars and then crashed into a utility pole.

Abbottstown: Charles Byers, 72, Hanover RD 5, was struck and killed by an automobile Saturday night as he walked along Route 194 near here

Millersburg: Mrs. Ruth Zettlemoyer, 61, Millersburg, was injured fatally Sunday night in a three-car collision on Route 14 near here. Her husband, William J. 58, was hospitalized.

Boy in Coma for The Past 13 Years

CHICAGO (UP)— Paul Sowa slumbered on today, as he has done without awakening for the past 13 years, but his family continued their prayers for the 18-year-old youth's recovery from a rare disease.

Paul is a victim of encephalitis, commonly known as "sleeping sickness," for which doctors have offered little hope of recovery.

Stanley and Bertha Sowa, the boy's parents, and his sister, Sharon, 14, have cared for Paul in their attic apartment since Jan. 20, 1945, when he first lapsed into the coma that has held his body in a state of living death.

Although his eyes will flicker open on occasions, his family doubts he comprehends what he sees. Doctors have said he is probably sensitive to vague shadowy images. The boy is unable to speak coherently, and his family has had to care for him as if he were an infant.

At one time it was suggested that Paul be placed in an institution, but his parents indignantly refused.

"Paul is our boy," Mrs Sowa declared. "We wouldn't give him away for the world"

One of the few times the youth has registered any expression, his parents said, was when he was blessed by Samuel Cardinal Stritch, archbishop of Chicago in 1946 Mrs Sowa said Paul's eyes opened wide and he appeared to be smiling as the Cardinal prayed for his recovery.

"Only the good Lord really knows what's ahead for Paul," Mrs. Sowa said Sunday. "In the meantime, we will pray for him and do our best to make him comfortable."

Mrs. Sowa explained that the family just lives "every day with our faith in God and secretly hoping for a miracle"

"We don't look upon Paulie's sickness as a burden or tough break for us," she added. "It has drawn our family closer together because we need and have learned to rely on one another."

St. John Church Elects Officers At Meeting Here

The congregation of St. John the Divine Russian Orthodox Church held its annual meeting last Sunday at which time the various church boards were reorganized Elected to the church board were Daniel Schureseko, president, Mickey E. Janicki, vice president; Andrew Dacko, financial secretary; Charles Punzell, treasurer; George J Yocos, recording secretary; and John Pacak, Tony Miralles, Jr. and John Sobran, Jr., auditors.

The new board of trustees will be Andrew Pacak, John Zolak, Michael Charnicky, John Krajnak, Dushan Milosevich, John Rudovsky, Sr. and John Woycio

Elected as general committeemen were J. Krajnak, M. Charnicky, P. Mica, J. Milosevich, S Rudovsky, J. Rudovsky, E. Ratica, P. Kowell, Jr., J. Costella, S. Gush, J. Shirley, M. Madzey, J. Cesovski, M Dankovcik, M Krajnak, J. Kurdilla, J. Dacko, III, M. Kraynek, E. Seykoski and P. Comadena.

27 Persons Killed

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP)—Twenty seven persons were killed and 30 seriously wounded Sunday in the accidental explosion of an artillery shell, it was reported today.

Three Arrested As Suspects in Club Robbery

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Police, acting on an anonymous telephone tip, arrested three men Sunday less than 12 hours after they robbed a North Side club of about $1,400.

The men entered a front office of the Moose Club late Saturday night and forced Michael R Abbott, a past governor of the club to open a safe More than 400 bingo players in the club's main hall were unaware a holdup was in progress

The suspects were identified as John Rio, 27, Ralph Gamble, 31, and James Shope, 37. Police Inspector Paul Mozuch said they admitted the robbery in signed statements

Two other men arrested in Rio's apartment were held for investigation. They were identified as Vincent Donnelly, 29, and Robert Mohaska, 21

Nearly all the loot was recovered.

Sam Going to Ball

WASHINGTON (UP)— Speaker Sam Rayburn's sister doesn't know "what happened to Sam this year — he's decided to go to the inaugural ball."

Mrs Edward Bartley, "Mr Sam's" hostess back home in Bonham, Tex, and his guest for the inaugural week end, said her bachelor brother hasn't gone to more than one or two inaugural balls in the 44 years he has been in Congress.

Former President Herbert Hoover planned to watch President Eisenhower's swearing-in today but not the inaugural parade. Mr Hoover's physicians advised him against being out for two or three hours in the weather. The only other living ex-president — Democrat Harry S Truman — declined an invitation to the inauguration.

Hawkers selling inaugural trinkets peddled buttons featuring the likeness of another well-known personality besides that of President Eisenhower — singer Elvis Presley. You could have your choice of buttons reading, "I like Elvis" and "I hate Elvis"

Ninety detectives — "nationally known for their ability in combating pickpockets" — were on duty for the inaugural festivities. Two Philadelphia detectives, Det. Frank Quinn and Sgt James O'Dare, arrested two men Sunday immediately after arriving in town and before they could report to the police headquarters for duty. This ruined the last inaugural record when not a single pickpocket report was made. The better class of pickpockets these days has gone into con games and the fraudulent check writing, police say.

Millionaires and near-millionaires arrived for the inauguration in their own private planes Among them were John Hay (Jock) Whitney, newly appointed ambassador to Great Britain, movie star Gene Autry, oilman Sid Richards and Henry Ford II.

Ultra-Modern Weapons Roll Before Ike in Big Parade

WASHINGTON (UP) — The nation wheeled out some of its most awesome ultra-modern weapons today for a second-term inaugural parade salute to President Eisenhower.

Also in the lineup of the gigantic procession were 17,000 persons—headed by President and Mrs. Eisenhower and Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon—34 floats, and 65 bands along with such samples of the nation's military might as guided missiles and the world's fastest fighter plane.

The parade route measured slightly more than 2 5 miles—from the Capitol Plaza, down Constitution Ave , to the foot of Capitol Hill and then along broad Pennsylvania Ave , to the heart of the city, around the century-old Treasury Building on 15th Street and along the front of the White House to the dispersal area a few blocks father.

Not Biggest Parade

This was not the biggest or longest inaugural parade in history. The 1952 parade set that record with a tedious, chilly four and one-half hours.

This year's procession was cut with a heavy hand. The target time set by Parade Chairman Edward R. Carr was 2½ hours.

But it still had an elephant, a horse that does the mambo and movie cowboy Monty Montana, who promised in advance not to rope President Eisenhower Montana lassoed the President in the reviewing stand in 1952 The Secret Service was not amused.

Carr trimmed out many military units and the tanks and field guns which used to lumber down historic Pennsylvania Avenue every four years.

He substituted smaller marching units and the grim assortment of modern guided missiles, plus the world's fastest fighter plane, the Lockheed F104A Starfighter The F104A has wings so short—7½ feet on each side of the fuselage—that it could be towed along the parade route

Pride of Parade

The pride of the parade planners was a tremendous float, more than 407 feet long — more than an average city block It presented the theme of the parade, "Liberty and strength through consent of the governed"

The big float had six sections depicting industrial production the modern hope, the peaceful use of the atom, the federal highway program, the St. Lawrence Seaway and the earth satellite program.

The parade committee, remembering lagging units and delays which stretched out the last inaugural parade, set up an elaborate communications system to keep the marchers moving. Six closed - circuit TV cameras scanned every foot of the route and led to monitor screens at a command post.

Order of Parade

This was the order of the parade:

A platoon of 24 motorcycle policemen and the grand marshal of the parade, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, at the head of the procession.

The inaugural committee and the 100-piece U S. Army Band.

President Eisenhower's escort—the honored 500-man first battalion of the 3rd Infantry Regiment, known as "The Old Guard" or "The President's Own," from nearby Ft Myer, Va.

The national, presidential and vice presidential flags, a color guard, and a Secret Service car.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower in a black limousine, and the Vice President and Mrs. Nixon in another.

Massed flags of the 48 states and the territories.

Chief Justice Earl Warren and former President Herbert Hoover in cars abreast.

Senate Republican Leader William F Knowland, Calif., was given the role of marshal of the first division of the parade.

The parade of the states included

Delaware: Gov. J Caleb Boggs, a float depicting ratification of the Constitution, the 28th Army Band from the Delaware National Guard and "The Captain Kirwood Company," a marching unit in costumes of the Revolutionary War period.

Pennsylvania: Maj Gen. J. Anthony Drexel Biddle, state adjutant general, a float showing the President's home at Gettysburg, Pa, the Valley Forge Military Academy Band from Wayne, and 50 mounted state troopers from Harrisburg.

New Jersey: Dr. C. Byron Blaisdell, representing the governor; a float entered by the March of Dimes; St. Anne's Drum and Bugle Corps, Fairlawn; and the Wide Awake Marching Club of Bergen County.

Connecticut: Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff, the Governor's Foot Guards and Band, mounted troops and a float with the theme of "modern industry."

Massachusetts: Gov. Foster Furculo, the 567th Air Force Band of the Massachusetts Air National Guard, a float entitled "Research and Development — Prosperous Living" and the Milton Grenadiers American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps and color guard.

Maryland: Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, the Bethesda - Chevy Chase High Schoo Band and the Pershing Rifles ROTC unit from Johns Hopkins University.

New Hampshire: Gov. Lane Dwinnell; a float, "Live Free or die;" and the Stevens High School Band.

Virginia: Gov Thomas D. Stanley, the Virginia Polytechnical Institute Band, 150 marchers from Light Infantry Blues, and the the VPI ROTC and the Richmond George Wythe High School Band from Wytheville.

New York: John J. McCloy, representing Gov Averell Harriman; a float depicting Niagara Falls and the Statue of Liberty, the 199th Army Band and the Service Battery, 104th Field Artillery Battalion, both of the New York National Guard. The battery won the 1956 Eisenhower Trophy for close-order drill

Rhode Island: The Kentish Guards of East Greenwich and the LaSalle Academy Band, Providence

Vermont: Gov. Joseph B Johnson.

Kentucky: Gov. A B. Chandler; Eastern High School Band, Middletown; float, "Trade and Commerce;" Morehead High School Band.

Ohio: Gov. C. William O'Neill; Quaker City American Legion Band, Salem; Yusef Khan Grotto Foot Patrol, Akron; an elephant named Miss Burma, Republican mascot in 1952.

Maine: Gov. Edmund S Muskie and the Port O'Rockland Junior Drum and Bugle Corps

West Virginia: Gov. Cecil Underwood.

Anti-Red Refugee Plan Suggested to Congress

WASHINGTON (UP)—Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr says President Eisenhower wants Congress to authorize a permanent anti-Communist refugee program.

Brownell said the program would:

1 Cover admission of refugees from Communist terror in all Iron Curtain nations.

2. Permit admission of a "certain" number each year—the number to be set annually by Congress.

The program also is expected to include a request for authorization to admit many more thousands of Hungarian refugees.

Brownell outlined it Sunday during a televised interview. It is scheduled to be submitted to Congress in the near future.

Other congressional news:

Inaugural: The House and Senate called late morning sessions prior to the presidential inauguration. However, they were expected to transact little business before recessing to attend the ceremonies.

Southerners: Sen. Paul H Douglas (D-Ill) said the Southern Democratic leadership in Congress fails to represent the Democratic Party or the people. He said he would "be very happy" if some unnamed Southern conservatives left the party.

Racketeering: Sen. Karl E. Mundt hoped the AFL-CIO Executive Board would instruct officials of the Teamsters Union to cooperate with a Senate labor racketeering investigation. A group of Teamsters officials has refused to answer subcommittee questions.

Budget: Sen. Styles Bridges (NH) accepted the "invitation" of Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey to cut President Eisenhower's record budget proposals. Bridges, ranking GOP member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said there is "some foundation" for Humphrey's fear of depression if federal spending is not reduced.

Housing: A House veterans committee reported that housing loans to veterans are going up through certain discount practices. The committee said lenders now are discounting loans at as much as 6 to 8 per cent.

Eisenhower Begins His Second Term

THE EYES of the nation, in fact the eyes of the whole world, today are on the man, Dwight D. Eisenhower, who will be raising his hand once more to take the pledge which the Constitution specifies for the President. It is truly a momentous day — for him and for all of us.

Mr. Eisenhower, we think it is right to say, is a great man. Not so much, perhaps, in the sense that his abilities tower over those of other men. He is hardly great as we think of Winston Churchill, for example, as being great. Our President is not a genius.

Dwight D. Eisenhower's greatness, it seems to us, lies partly in his dedication to what he considers to be his duty and partly in his instinct for finding the common denominators by which men can cooperate in constructive solutions for their problems.

It is well known that Mr. Eisenhower did not want to run for a second term as President. After a long life in the service of the country, he had more pleasant things which he wanted to do and which he and his Mamie had prepared themselves to do.

Moreover, he had been seriously ill — twice. And while his recoveries have been all they could possibly be, these illnesses surely would have made his retirement honorable.

But the President came to the conclusion that he had some further service to render. And although there is no self-conceit in him, he concluded that he perhaps could render this service better than any other man who seemed likely to be elected President.

So he put his personal preference aside and ran again. It was a call of duty, and the tremendous electoral majority which the people gave him eloquently confirmed the President's judgment.

* * *

AS PRESIDENT, Mr. Eisenhower has been a unifier. The bitterness, the mistrust, the savage partisanship that so marked our national political life for 20 years or more before he entered the White House — these have largely disappeared. We still have sharp political discussion and some deep cleavages of opinion, to be sure, but the rancor based on differences of class and condition are almost gone. Even in so emotional a controversy as that involving racial segregation, it is possible to see the leaven of goodwill and understanding at work.

For this we can be eternally thankful to Dwight Eisenhower. This is his greatness, this ability to lead men away from their baser motivations, to help them to trust themselves and each other.

For all the problems that beset the nation and the world, this country is happier, stronger, more confident than it was four years ago. And this, in our judgment, has been the surpassing achievement of Mr. Eisenhower.

As he dedicates himself anew to the country's service, we would have him know our gratitude and wish him again good health, a quiet mind and a strong spirit.

Israel Should Comply

THE UNITED STATES has again acted properly in the Middle East crisis by supporting a resolution in the United Nations calling upon Israel to withdraw its forces from Egyptian soil, including the controversial Gaza Strip, within five days. The resolution, introduced by a group of 25 Asian and African states, was adopted by a vote of 74 to 2.

Israel's invasion of Egypt, which in conjunction with the British-French attack came so close to bringing on a world war, was a serious source of embarrassment to all who have regarded themselves as good friends of Israel.

But Israel's policies since the invasion have, in a sense, been even more embarrassing. For the stubborn refusal of Israel to withdraw its armed forces to its own borders, even after Britain and France withdrew from the Suez area in compliance with U. N. resolutions, has been a defiance of world opinion which is impossible for anyone to justify.

Israel has taken the position that it is necessary for it to continue to occupy Egyptian soil in order to protect itself from Egyptian commando raids. But this hardly squares with Israel's claims, which are well-founded, to have destroyed the Egyptian army, including the bases from which the commando raids had been conducted. Indeed, the rapidity with which the Israelis defeated the Egyptians and the feeble resistance which the Egyptians offered has made us wonder just what Israel has been afraid of all along.

At any rate, we do not see how Israel can maintain the confidence of its friends and persist in policy which has its armed forces in possession of territory which does not belong to Israel. This is not self-defense, but conquest.

The U. N. now has a military force of its own in this area, for the very purpose of preserving order and peace until arrangements can be made for the settlement of the problems of the area. Surely it is not asking too much of Israel, which has received so much at the hands of its friends, to do what Britain and France have already done and comply promptly with the decisions of the United Nations.

Merry-Go-Round—

Ike Trying For Peace, 'New' GOP

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — There are some changes in Dwight D. Eisenhower as he begins his second term as President of the United States. He's learned a lot in four years.

Mr. Pearson

He's learned, among other things, not to be afraid of Congress. He's become a master politician. He's no longer afraid of the press, can play a press conference with the skill that a musician fingers a keyboard. And he likes the job — which at first he didn't like at all.

Finally, he's determined to make a name for himself in history — as a man of peace. Also, he wants to develop new political leaders, rejuvenate the Republican Party.

But in some other respects, Ike hasn't changed. Men don't change radically after they reach the age of 60, and the President is now 66.

He hasn't lost the personal touch, despite the pressing burden of the presidency. He likes people; likes to phone his friends direct without going through a secretary; likes to scribble longhand notes, still likes to be called Ike by his friends. He may interrupt the most important business session to do something personal; would much rather meet the champion truck-driver of the year than a group of congressmen.

In other respects, also, the President hasn't changed. He still loses his temper quickly. He is still too trusting of friends and executives, still delegates too much to men around him without checking their operations. And he still likes decisions made for him.

His instruction to the Joint Chiefs of Staff at the Quantico Marine Corps base in the summer of 1953 that he wanted unanimous recommendations from them, still stands. He does not want to have to decide between the Army, Navy, and Air Force. And when he, as Commander-in-Chief, has been called upon to make the decisions which a Commander-in-Chief must make as to whether the United States should intervene in Indo-China and whether we should take a stand at Quemoy and Matsu, he has hesitated and delayed.

The president has come a long way from that famous evening at the F Street Club when he shocked Republican intimates by saying that, in wartime, business should be taxed proportionate to the sacrifice of the boy who gives up his life.

Today he feels completely at home with business advisers, who so criticized his views at the F Street Club. He feels much more comfortable with them than with labor advisers. No labor advisers are close to him today.

Eisenhower Luck

More than anything else during these next four years, the President hopes he may bring about an era of peace. He is aware that big things have been stirring behind the Iron Curtain, and while he does not entirely know how we can take advantage of this ferment, he does have a certain reliance on his ability to be on the job at the right time.

The man on the street might call it Eisenhower luck. Historians might call it being a man of destiny. But just as Eisenhower was the right age when Pearl Harbor broke, just as the weather was right on the day of the Normandy invasion, and just as fate chose to let Stalin die while Ike was in the White House, so the President feels that he may be the man who came along at the right time to bring peace to the world.

What the President needs to watch most during the next four years are certain backstage deals that could damage his place in history. To illustrate, his Attorney General is now discussing a deal to let Pan American Airways and the Grace Steamship Co. out of an antitrust suit regarding their joint airplane company, Panagra.

What makes this look bad is that Peter Grace, chairman of Grace Line, Inc., serves on one of Ike's advisory committees for Latin America; also hired one of Ike's White House aides, Charlie Willis, as his assistant.

Recently Peter Grace has been talking to Attorney General Brownell, not about Latin America, but about the antitrust suit. He has served an ultimatum that Grace Line will not sell a single share of its stock in Panagra.

Only concession is to let the court appoint one out of Grace's four directors on Panagra. This concession had been refused by the Civil Aeronautics Board as not acceptable.

However, Peter Grace is a man high up in Republican councils, and it looks as if he would get his way. At a special secret meeting between Brownell, his assistant, Victor Hanson, and James Durfee, new chairman of the CAB, Durfee retreated from the CAB's original position.

The Justice Department is now ready to wash up the government's suit if one director on Panagra is appointed by the court.

This is a long way from the Justice Department's demand that the Grace Steamship Co. sell its stock in the Panagra Airline.

Humphrey and the Budget

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

If the Eisenhower administration did not have George M. Humphrey as Secretary of the Treasury and as a powerful and persistent advocate of reduced government spending, it would invent him.

Mr. Humphrey has now used his annual budget briefing, as the President is asking Congress to approve the biggest peacetime budget in history — up more than $7 billion in three years — to urge that Mr. Eisenhower's appropriations requests be cut just as drastically as possible just as soon as possible.

Mr. Drummond

Does this mean that a deep policy breach has developed between the economy-minded Secretary of the Treasury and the President? Does this mean that Mr. Humphrey is likely to resign his post or to precipitate a division which would cause Mr. Eisenhower to bring about his resignation?

These questions are being asked in Washington and not without some foundation. The answer, according to the best judgments and information I can gather, is that it is not going to happen, that there will be no break between Mr. Humphrey and the President.

Over Ike's Head

I do not suggest that a good theoretical case cannot be made that Mr. Humphrey has gone beyond the bounds of team play in publicizing his reservations about the size of the Eisenhower budget. If a correspondent looks only at the surface of Mr. Humphrey's position and judges only by the bare words of the question-and-answer part of his press conference, he may understandably infer that the Secretary of the Treasury is too far headed in a direction opposite to the President to remain in office.

You can say that the Secretary appealed over the head of the President to Congress to trim the President's budget. He did.

You can say that Mr. Humphrey deeply distrusts any action by the federal government through deficit-spending and lowered taxes to control the business cycle. He does, yet this is a policy which, under some circumstances, Mr. Eisenhower would favor.

You can say that Mr. Humphrey places a far higher priority on balancing the budget under almost any circumstance than the President. He does.

There are differences in degree — and such differences can become quite fundamental — between the President and his Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. Humphrey's usually controlling view is that the position of a government in the red is exactly like that of the householder who persistently spends more than he has. What would you think of a housewife who does that? Mr. Humphrey asks, with the assumption that the question answers itself, ends all argument.

It doesn't end all argument with Mr. Eisenhower.

What would you think, he would be disposed to ask, of a housewife who, when her son caught polio, refused to borrow the money and spend more than the family earned in order to give him the best of care and help him survive?

Budget not All-important

Mr. Eisenhower's position is that this housewife figure of speech is profoundly misleading and does not reach to the heart of the question.

The question, he would say, is not primarily the budget, but how you measure the magnitude of the world crisis on the basis of which the government, like the housewife, must do whatever is needed to insure survival.

There is no doubt that Mr. Eisenhower continues to have great respect and confidence in Mr. Humphrey. My information is that he is not at all disturbed by the degree of differences between himself and the Secretary of the Treasury or by Mr. Humphrey's let's-cut-the-budget press conference—for three reasons:

The President doesn't want his economic advice coming from a single economic viewpoint; he'll resolve the differences.

He knows that the greater pressures are always on the side of more spending, not more saving, and that Mr. Humphrey's special concern for economy is useful, not harmful.

He recognizes that primarily the Secretary of the Treasury was calling for a concerted crusade by the public, the Congress and the executive to keep down the demands for federal spending.

With this Mr. Eisenhower is in complete agreement and there is no reason to conclude that Mr. Humphrey will not continue high in the councils of the administration.

Congress Being Asked For a Blank Check

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Mr. Dulles has finished with his public testimony on behalf of the proposed Middle Eastern resolution, and he must now see what he can do in secret session. It is evident enough that the senators are baffled, and that they feel that they are voting for things that are not being explained to them and that they do not understand. For Mr. Dulles has been using all the arts of a skilled lawyer to avoid saying anything precise and concrete about what is the policy which the resolution authorizes, and about how he intends to operate it when Congress has voted the resolution.

Mr. Lippmann

What he is asking from Congress is a grant of power — in terms of considerable sum of money — and along with this grant of power a free hand to use the power, and in addition a vote of confidence in advance. He is asking, I take it, that Congress provide him with all possible bargaining power in negotiating with the Arab states. The bargaining power he wants would consist first, of authority to use the American armed forces without further action by Congress; second, the authority to spend $200,000,000 now without having to say in advance how it is to be spent; and, third, the overall moral force of having it known that all these proceedings have the blessing of Congress.

Congress Can't Refuse

Having tinkered a bit with the resolution, Congress will presumably in the end vote for it. When the Secretary of State, speaking for the President, says that the issue of war and peace hangs on his proposal, it is impossible for Congress to refuse. Under a parliamentary system of government, the legislature could reject the proposal if it dislikes it and could force the government to resign, bringing into existence a different government. But under our system, the control of foreign relations is in the hands of the President, and on a show-down Congress must support him when he certifies that his proposals are a matter of life and death.

In this case, Congress is being asked for a big grant of authority of which one of the essential characteristics is that the use of this authority is not to be explained in advance. Nothing quite like that has, so far as I can remember, been asked of Congress except, of course, in time of war.

In the Formosa resolution, Congress took a commitment to defend Formosa and the Pescadores, and it authorized the President to determine what should be done about the off-shore islands. The Formosa resolution was, therefore, a specific grant of authority. As for the Truman doctrine, the only power the President asked for was a specific power to aid Greece and Turkey; the global part of the doctrine was a presidential declaration in which Congress did not have to play any practical part.

General Powers

This new resolution is a generalized grant of power. It is so general that not even the countries are specified to which it applies. The best argument for it is that the collapse of the British position has consequences that are far-reaching and as yet incalculable. The old connections in the Middle East are, if not completely broken as in Egypt, then profoundly shaken as in Iraq. Among the Western nations only the United States is in a position to negotiate with the Middle Eastern countries, and what Eisenhower and Dulles are asking from Congress is a blank check in an emergency.

The grant of free money, which seems to trouble Congress the most, is best explained and justified, I would suppose, by telling ourselves that it is to be used for loans and subsidies which are primarily political in their impact on the governments and on public opinion. These are not elegant projects which can be laid before Congress in the form of blueprints supported by the testimony of engineers and technicians. They belong rather to the small change of international political trading.

National Affairs—

Ike Puts FDR, Truman In Shade as Spender

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt was what the Broadway crowd would call a fast man with a buck. That means he was a big spender.

FDR's fat peacetime spending programs of $7 or $8 billion and thereabouts in a single year panicked the financial community.

President Harry S. Truman came along after that and set new spending records. And, now, President Eisenhower is spending at a peacetime rate which makes FDR and HST look like pikers.

Mr. Wilson

On the basis of estimates for the current fiscal year, the Eisenhower administration will have a four-year spending total of $267.9 billion. That is for Mr. Eisenhower's first term. He has begun his second with budget estimates for continued big spending; in fact, record peacetime spending.

FDR served three full terms and spent in each of them, respectively, $29 billion, $37 billion and $306 billion. Mr. Roosevelt's $306 billion tops Mr. Eisenhower's first term expenditure, but FDR's spending was largely for World War II. Mr. Roosevelt was in the red every year during his presidency.

HST Also Had Deficits

Mr. Truman spent $172 billion in the four-year term he inherited on FDR's death in April, 1945. HST was in the red more often than not. World War II spending was being tapered off then, but not much. Mr. Truman won a presidential term in his own right in the 1948 elections and he loosened the purse strings thereupon.

In HST's second term, government cost $223 billion, plus a considerable accumulation of deficit spending which must be paid sometime by somebody. If Mr. Eisenhower's spending record is shadowed a bit by FDR's World War II spending, the present administration has a clear spending lead over Mr. Truman.

While he was spending that $267.9 billion, Mr. Eisenhower was a busy tax collector. Come next June 30, which is the end of the current fiscal year, and Mr. Eisenhower will have collected approximately $263 billion, an enormous sum of money which is not much under the tax take of all three Roosevelt administrations put together. The 12-year Roosevelt take was more than $300 billion.

Mr. Truman collected taxes with a heavier hand. His eight-year take was more than $395 billion. Mr. Eisenhower will run his tax take up to about $526 billion in eight years unless he reduces government costs sufficiently to make tax reductions feasible.

Complaints From Humphrey

Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey is beginning to grumble where he can be overheard that taxes and government costs must be reduced — or else. The or else, Humphrey believes, would be a devastating depression. Mr. Eisenhower has a quick ear for the advice of his secretary of treasury, so maybe tax cuts are coming sometime, but not soon.

The spending figures put Mr. Eisenhower right up there with the New Dealers and Fair Dealers as a spender of other peoples' money. There is, however, a difference. Mr. Eisenhower is no New Dealer on government deficits. He does not like to spend borrowed money and he has put considerable effort into balancing the federal budget. It is balanced now.

Mr. Eisenhower has learned the hard way what others had to learn before him: That cutting government expenses is next to impossible. Few but the old timers around town will recall that Franklin D. Roosevelt made government economy a big issue in his first presidential campaign. He was going to reduce government expenses by 25 per cent, but he never was able to make good on that. He decided, instead, to spend the country out of depression. That did not work, either.

The Chiropractor And You "VERTEBRAL SUBLUXATION"

BY

Dr. Frank F. Tucci

An interested reader writes and wants to know what we mean by a "vertebral subluxation", how it is produced and what effect it has on health.

A "vertebral subluxation" is the term Chiropractors use to designate that condition where the bony segments (vertebrae) of the spine become slightly displaced from their normal positions.

How is subluxation produced? The human anatomy is being constantly bombarded by external concussional forces. The spine is continually subjected to these forces and for the most part absorbs the brunt of these forces. However, if the external forces are of greater magnitude than can be met successfully by the internal resistive forces, they are reflected in the spine as a vertebral subluxation.

For instance, jars, jolts, falls and strains act as invading external forces. Bodily movements involving lifting and slipping, lifting and pushing, shoveling, sudden wrenching or twisting of the body contribute to the production of a subluxation. Even emotional shocks — both physical and mental — have invasionary powers sufficient to produce a subluxation.

Chiropractic has scientifically established the fact that a vertebral subluxation does affect the health of the individual because the displaced vertebrae produce pressure on delicate nerves passing through openings between the vertebrae. This interferes with the normal flow of nerve energy from the brain to some part of the body. Sooner or later, that part of the body will lose its normal function resulting in some form of disease.

As a health safe measure we suggest you visit a Chiropractor. He is trained to locate and correct the vertebral subluxation which can result in the restoration of your health.

MHS Basketballers Stress Teamwork

Even though Monessen High has pretty much dominated basketball in the Mon Valley, the Greyhounds have seldom boasted the leading scorer. During his reign as head man, Coach Frank Janosik has never had a top point-getter. His winning system stresses team work and defense, rather than individual brilliance . . . Speaking of teamwork, Duquesne University's starting five basketballers have gone the route in a couple of games this season. All of which has brought up that old question: Who were the members of the famed Iron Dukes? They were Moe Becker, Paul Widowitz, Rudy Debnar, Ed Milkovich and Lou Kasparic

The PIAA has promised to consider a request to stage the 1959 state basketball title games in Pittsburgh. The city will be in the midst of its bi-centennial celebration then and the floor attractions will fit in with a list of sports events planned for the year . . . Coach Harold Smith, the Greensburg basketball boss who will go into the motel business in Florida at the end of the current season, has won seven section titles in 14 years . . . By the way, Smith's successor at Greensburg will have some good-looking talent next season. Most of the current squad will be back for the 1957-58 grind.

Excited over Wigwam Wisemen Team

In Charleroi some of the more partisan fans are excited because Centerville's Red Worrell won a first team berth on the annual Wigwam Wiseman football team over the Cougars fine Myron Pottios. Frankly we think the whole thing is ridiculous. How is it possible to pick eleven high school boys from all over the nation and describe them as the best? We haven't voted for any Wigwam Wiseman teams in the past and we don't intend to vote for any in the future, either . . . Speaking of Worrell, the rumor is out that he'll either wind up at Pitt of Michigan State. The Spartans want him badly, but Worrell may elect to stay close to home. Let's hope so. He'll be a good one for the Panthers.

Despite a fancy undefeated record, the McKeesport High Tigers still haven't impressed anyone with their play in Section 6, generally regarded as the toughest league in the WPIAL. Even McKeesport critics expect their favorites to drop a game or two before the Section race is over. They reason that the McKeesporters will win the Section 6 title despite a couple of setbacks . . . An effort to increase annual dues at the Greene County Country Club has been voted down . . . No less than three O'Tooles are basketballing for the S-L quint in the City League this season. They Joe, Don and Bert, with the latter also serving as coach.

How's This for a Team Name?

A team in the city's intramural basketball league carries the tag: "Biology Pleurobachiae." . . . WQED's weekly television show, "Pitt Huddle," has been switched from Tuesday to Thursday at 8:30 to 9:30 p. m. Movies of Pitt basketball games will be screened in the next several weeks . . . Harry Folk, St. Vincent's basketball star, is certainly durable. He's played all but three minutes of the Bearcats ten basketball assignments to date . . . Johnny Bunardzya, our sportswriting contemporary in Charleroi, claims the Cougar footballers have netted almost $30,000 in two seasons. They earned no less than $7,150 in the 1956 double-A title game of the WPIAL.

Industrial League Bids for Cage Stars

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—The National Industrial Basketball League, whose Phillips Oilers formed the backbone of the U.S. Olympic team, was determined today to bid against pro basketball for the cream of the college basketball crop.

The tipoff on this comes from Jerry Groom, the Goliath who captained Notre Dame's gridiron forces in 1950 and was every body's All-America center before playing five years with the Chicago Cardinals. Now he is publicity director for the Denver-Chicago Truckers of the NIBL.

And the point of this story is that big business finally has realized the promotional value of big-time sports and is looking for the good athletes—with business brains.

Typifies The Trend

Groom's company, the only coast to coast trucking outfit, typifies the trend.

As the first move, D&C President George Kolowich authorized Groom to make an attractive bid for the pro football Chicago Cardinal franchise. When this was turned down, they obtained a franchise in the NIBL.

The first thing they did was to hire Johnny Dee, who had just led Alabama to the Southeastern Conference championship. Then they started bidding for college players against the pro basketball clubs.

"And we have a definite edge on the pros," insists Groom, "because our boys can earn about $6,000 a year — which is right around the pro salary average— and at the same time go through a training program which fits them for a top position in business when they are through playing."

Real Threat To Pros

The industrial outfits are a real threat to the pros when they really desire a player because, in the past, they have originally outbid the pros for such stars as Bob Kurland of the Oklahoma Aggies, Don Barksdale of UCLA, Chuck Noble of Louisville, Burdy Haldorson of Colorado and Chuck Darling of Iowa.

And the industrials, with a league which embraces Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio, Colorado, Kansas and Oklahoma—and next year will shoot for teams in Los Angeles and Jacksonville, Fla.—do it up in college style. The D&C team, for instance, travels in its own chartered plane and the players wear uniform dress and cowboy hats.

Big Crowd at Arnold Boxing

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Promoter Ben Anolik today sought a rematch between heavyweights Garvin Sawyer, Cincinnati, and Embrel Davidson, Detroit, following their lively bout at the Arnold High gym Saturday night.

Sawyer absorbed a licking for four rounds and then knocked out Davidson in the fifth. About 1,300 fans, including Rocky Marciano, attended the show.

Anolik was expected to try to schedule the rematch for Saturday, Feb. 9.

Charleroi Appears Here Tomorrow

Rostraver Set for Big Game

Leps Play Host to Scotties

Rostraver's title conscious basketballers will get their big chance in Section 10 tomorrow when they play host to spirited Scottdale.

A win for the Leps will boost them to the top of the tight Section standings.

At the mon ent, the Scotties head the class with a 4-1 record. Rostraver is right behind with a 3-1 slate.

This is considered a key game for the Leps. They almost have to win to stay in contention.

The current race is so close that most observers figure the eventual champion MUST win all home games.

In other Section 10 tussles, Derry Twp. will appear at Ramsay and Dunbar will go to Ligonier.

Over in Section 5, the big game will match Charleroi at Monessen, both boasting perfect 4-0 records in league action.

Other games will show Brownsville at Bellmar and Monongahela at California.

Brownsville and California each have mathematical hope yet and they are favored to keep alive their flickering ambitions by winning tomorrow.

The close Section 17 race will send Perryopolis, 3-0, to South Huntingdon, 0-3. This game figures to be closer than previous records would seem to indicate.

West Newton, in hot pursuit of Perry, will play host to Sewickley while Irwin will go to East Huntingdon in other loop encounters.

Junior High activity will begin today. In Section 3 Marion will appear at Rostraver while over in Section 2 Donora will challenge Charleroi.

The Charleroians haven't lost a game in 94 home appearances. But that record is in serious jeopardy today from the unbeaten Donorans.

Section 2 games tomorrow will show Monessen at California and Monongahela at Washington.

The Section 3 chart will pair Vernon at Perryopolis and Carroll Twp. at Fallowfield on Thursday.

Detroit Concludes Montreal's Ten Game Win Streak

By UNITED PRESS

Montreal's 10-game unbeaten string was at an end today and to make matters worse, the Detroit Red Wings were serving formal notice on the Canadiens that their first-place lease in the National Hockey League may expire soon.

Detroit spurted to within two points of the league lead by beating the New York Rangers, 5-2, Sunday night while the last-place Chicago Black Hawks ended the Canadiens' seven-game winning string and unbeaten string of 10 games with a 4-2 victory.

Sid Smith's third-period goal gave the Toronto Maple Leafs a 3-2 triumph over the Boston Bruins at Boston. The victory was the Leafs' second over the Bruins in as many nights. Boston has failed to score a victory in its last four games.

Second Division Teams Have 'Day' In AHL Action

By UNITED PRESS

Springfield. Buffalo and Rochester, league "whipping boys," gave the topsy-turvy American Hockey League tournament another spin today.

The league's lower echelon reared up to defeat Cleveland, Hershey and Providence, the top half of the league, Sunday night. The turn-about prevented both Cleveland and Hershey from taking first place. Providence's loss left the Reds with a fragile one-point first place lead.

A frenzied five-goal first period offensive by Rochester enabled it to defeat Cleveland, 7-3. Ab McDonald, with two goals, and Brian Cullen, with one and three assists, starred for the Americans.

Larry Wilson's score at 9:46 of the final period climaxed an uphill Buffalo drive that gave it a 5-4 win over Providence. Springfield's Bob Sabourin put on a one-man show, scoring two goals and assisting on the other score to lead the Indians to a 3-2, hard-fought victory over Hershey.

Furgol Closes Fast to Win Mexican Tourney

By HAL WOOD

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. (UP)— Old Ed Furgol, a 12-1 shot in the betting, came tearing down the home stretch to win the $15,000 Caliente Open golf derby by a nose from the fast-closing Al Besselink Sunday.

In a dramatic wind-up to one of the "gamblingest" PGA tournaments on record, the former National Open champion, now playing out of St. Andrews, Ill., nipped Besselink on the second hole of a play-off to decide the champion.

The two men had ended the tournament in a deadlock for first place, each with an eight-under-par score of 280. Then they opened their private duel in the darkness, cold and rain — with Furgol capturing the $2000 first prize when he got a par on the 450-yard hole as Besselink bogied.

For Furgol, it was his third victory in the last nine months in a major tournament and again added proof to the fact that this man with the withered arm is one of the finest golfers of the era.

He had entered the tournament as a lukewarm choice compared with 8-1 for defending champion Mike Souchak, who ended up in a tie for third place with Gene Littler, Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Besselink had entered the tourney at 30-1.

But with those kinds of odds, Besselink can play like Ben Hogan. And he did.

Trailing Paul Harney of Bolton, Mass., by one stroke going into the final round, Besselink went out in 36, came back like a champion.

But Furgol was a champion all the way through and there wasn't any way to deny his steady playing, he shot rounds of 72-67-70-71 and then finished off the two extra holes in even par.

The best long shot of the tourney, Zell Eaton of Pomona, Calif., at 60-1, came home in fifth place with a 283 and collected $900.

Meanwhile, young Paul Harney of Bolton, Mass., the third-round leader, had trouble on the final round, took a husky 75 and ended up with 284 — which tied him with Jay Hebert; Dow Finsterwald, who had sold for top price of $4,250 in the Calcutta pool; and Jackie Burke. They each collected $725.

Martin Good Bowler, Too

Cougars Challenge Hounds Long Win Streak in Sec. 5

The longest winning streak in Section 5 basketball history is supposed to come to an abrupt end tomorrow.

That's when the towering Charleroi Cougars will invade Monessen to challenge the 38 game victory streak authored by the spunky Greyhounds over the past four seasons.

According to the critics, the towering Cougars will win and do so decisively.

The fans, though, are obviously unconvinced of that fact. A sell-out crowd of 3,000-plus will be on hand to see if the host Hounds can really be beaten.

Reserved seat tickets for the game were all but sold out more than a week ago. A quantity of general admission ducats will go on sale at the gate tomorrow.

Easy Time?

Statistical evidence would seem to indicate an easy time for the visitors. They will come to town with a brilliant record which includes 13 victories in 14 outings. Their most notable success was an easy 15 point decision over highly respected Altoona in the Johnstown Baksetball Tournament.

The only mar on the Charleroi record is an overtime loss to Uniontown in somewhat of a controversial game.

In comparing the two teams, the experts quickly point out that the Cougars have just about everything in their favor. Significantly, the smallest member of the starting CHS lineup will stand a good inch higher than Monessen's biggest.

However there are certain factors working in Monessen's favor, even if they are among the "intangibles."

Intense Rivalry

To begin with, Charleroi-Monessen contests in all sports have a tendency to even off despite statistical proof that one team is superior. The intense rivalry between the schools usually squares things pretty much by game time.

Then, too, the Hounds are coasting along on winning momentun. It's been so long since they lost a game to a valley rival, that the current MHS dribblers seriously doubt that they can.

A "tangible" factor is Monessen's favor is speed. The Hounds are definitely faster.

Thus a case can be made for Monessen even though a realistic comparison of the two teams would tend to dictate otherwise.

For Monessen to win, though, it is pretty generally agreed that the Hounds will have to combine a good night with a sub par Charleroi performance.

As usual, both teams will carry perfect 4-0 league record into the game. They almost always do.

Three Games in City League

Three games are scheduled tonight in the City Basketball League.

BOWLING

By JOE JANNOTTA

Like all other sports, duckpin bowling has developed a certain etiquette.

This bowling courtesy may be summarized in 12 rules, which we'll go over in our three columns this week.

Here are the first four rules:

1. Remain back of the foul line at all times.

2. After delivering a ball, walk straight back on the approach. Do not stand at the foul line or return.

Respect Priority

3. When a bowler on the adjoining lane is addressing the pins, respect his priority. Don't step in front of him to pick your ball off the rack.

4. Do not attempt to deliver the ball simultaneously with a bowler on an adjoining alley. If you are both ready to bowl at the same time, the bowler on the right should go first.

We'll go over more rules on Wednesday.

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Lou Little, who retired last year as Columbia University's head football coach, will receive the 1956 Brith Sholom National Sports Award tonight for his contributions to the sport and "devoted service to American youth."

New Kings Take Over Basketball

All But Four Major Conferences Scheduled to Have New Champions

By UNITED PRESS

The 1956-57 college basketball season reached the mid-year examination milestone today with only four major conference champions of last year in line to repeat — Southern Methodist, West Virginia, Connecticut, and Idaho State.

These are the only court kings of 1956 who once again are leading their leagues.

Only five of the nation's top 10 teams played this weekend and all won—led by third - ranked Kentucky.

SMU, the nation's No. 4 team, clings to a half-game lead in the Southwest Conference race despite a surprise loss to Texas on Friday night.

West Virginia, ranked 18th nationally, has a perfect 5-0 record in the Southern Conference.

Connecticut, with a 2-0 record in the Yankee Conference, is a solid choice to win the crown for the fourth straight year.

Idaho State has a 4-0 mark in the Rocky Mountain Conference and is expected to win its fifth league crown.

Here's the situation in the other major conferences:

Big Ten: Ohio State kept its lead at 4-0 with a 70-51 rout of Michigan State Saturday. The Buckeyes are favored over Wisconsin tonight and Northwestern Saturday.

Pacific Coast Conference: California is 5-0 but defending champ UCLA is right behind at 4-0. Cal is scheduled for one game this week, vs Stanford on Friday, but UCLA is idle.

Ivy League: Leader Princeton (5-0) is idle this week.

Atlantic Coast: North Carolina, nation's No. 2 team and the only major unbeaten team in the country, is 6-0 in the league race.

Southeastern: Tulane ahead with 4-1, but Kentucky, nation's No. 3 team is right behind at 3-1 along with Auburn. Kentucky can tie idle Tulane for lead by beating 10th ranked Vanderbilt Saturday, and Auburn can take the lead by beating Georgia Tech Tuesday and Georgia Saturday.

Big Seven: Kansas still leads with 3-1, but upsetter Iowa State and Nebraska are each 2-1. Kansas and Nebraska are idle, but Iowa State can tie for first by beating Missouri Thursday.

Skyline: Brigham Young leads with 3-1, followed by Montana and Utah State at 3-2. Brigham Young-Utah State clash Friday tops the league's program this week.

Missouri Valley: Bradley, ranked 14th nationally, way out front with 5-1 against 3-1 for St. Louis and Wichita. Bradley risks perfect mark tonight vs Tulsa.

Other conference leaders include: Middle Eastern—St. Peter's; Mid - American—Miami of Ohio; Border—Texas Western.

De Fendis Meets Luedee Tonight

NEW YORK (UP)—Angelo Defendis, the Brooklyn boxer who knocked out Ernie (The Rock) Durando in the first round at St. Nicholas Arena Dec. 24, is an 8-5 choice to make Jerry Luedee of New Haven, Conn., his sixth straight victim tonight in the same ring.

The bout will be televised by Dumont at 10:30 p.m. EST.

The past records of Defendis and Luedee indicate tonight's clash may not go the full 10 rounds. Defendis has scored 10 of his 17 victories by knockouts and Luedee's 21 triumphs include 11 kayos.

The 24-year-old Defendis apparently likes to go home early. He has won four fights on first-round knockouts. He has lost only twice during his short pro career of 19 bouts.

Luedee, who hasn't been stopped in 26 starts, has lost four fights and fought one draw.

Flyweight Title Bout Postponed

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, (UP) — The Jan. 30 world flyweight title bout between champion Pascual Perez of Argentina and challenger Memo Diez of Mexico has been postponed because of illness to the Mexican fighter. Diez is suffering from a stomach disorder, but said he should be able to go through with the fight in "eight to 15 days."

Long Honored At Big Dapper Dan Banquet

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Dale Long, Pittsburgh Pirates first baseman, was presented a Dapper Dan Award for 1956 Sunday night as one of the city's best "ambassadors of good will."

More than 1,200 sports fans joined some of the biggest names in sports to honor Long and 16 others at the annual Dapper Dan banquet in the Penn-Sheraton Hotel. The group is a charitable organization of sports fans.

Long was cited for setting the major league consecutive - game homer record. He hit a homer in each of eight consecutive games last season.

Four other national awards went to Rocky Marciano, retired heavyweight champion; Larry (Yogi) Berra, New York Yankees catcher; Forest Evashevski, coach of Iowa's Rose Bowl champions, and Paul Hornung, Notre Dame quarterback.

Recipients of 12 district awards were: Billy Virdon and Roy Face, of the Pirates; Joe Walton, Corny Savaterra and Bob Pollock, of Pitt; Elbie Nickel, of the Pittsburgh Steelers; Rodney (Hot Rod) Hundley, West Virginia basketball star; Milt Plum, Penn State quarterback; Herb Scott, racing car driver; Markley Barnes, Jeannette High School coach; L. Butler Hennon, Wampum High School coach, and Harold Burry, Westminister College coach.

Dwyer Surprises Hungarian Star In Two Mile Run

BOSTON, (UP)—The better two-milers will be glad when Fred Dwyer gets in shape. He's murdering them in the meantime.

Dwyer, a 25-year-od salesman from East Orange, N.J., is a miler. But he switched to the two-mile in the Knights of Columbus track meet here Saturday night to build up his stamina. He figured that when he's ready, he'll switch back to his specialty in an attempt to become the first American to run the mile under four minutes.

So what happens. Dwyer turns in an 8:52.4 two-mile Saturday night, ruining Hungarian expatriate Laszlo Tabori's American debut.

Dwyer's time set a new garden record and was only one and nine-tenths of a second off the world's indoor mark.

There was only one other meet record broken in the meet, the first big indoor get-together of the season. That was by Oympic gold medal winner Lee Calhoun of North Carolina College.

Olympic Star Wins

Calhoun, who set an Olympic record in the 110-meter hurdles, won the 45-yard high hurdles. Calhoun's time of 5.5 seconds was one-tenth of a second better than the former meet mark held by the now retired Harrison (Bones) Dillard.

Herb Carper of Pitt won the 50-yard dash in 5.4, upsetting defending champion George Sydnor of Villanova. Charlie Jenkins of Villanova, who along with Fordham's Tom Courtney won two gold medals at the 1956 Olympic Games, won the 600 for the fourth straight time.

Courtney, however, was unable to overcome Arnie Sowell's lead in the 1000. Sowell, running for the University of Pittsburgh, held off Courtney's desperate bid and won by 10 feet in 2:12.8.

The mile was won by Phil Coleman who had a 4:10.8 clocking.

Don Bragg pole vaulted an even 15-feet to take that event, while Phil Reavis won the high jump with a 6-9 effort.

Lull in College Basketball During Mid-Semester Exams

By UNITED PRESS

College basketball activity in the district still is in the mid-semester lull this week, with players concentrating on books instead of baskets.

Only a few games are listed for the week. Duquesne's game with St. Bonaventure at Buffalo Saturday night is the only one involving a Pittsburgh team.

In weekend activity, Pitt defeated Army, 54-47; Carnegie Tech beat Slippery Rock, 65-59; Washington & Jefferson trounced Fenn of Cleveland, 78-49; St. Francis easily beat Geneva, 98-73; Juniata defeated Lycoming, 64-58, in overtime, and Fairmont (W. Va.) won, 103-77, over California Teachers.

Pitt came from behind to defeat Army at West Point for its 10th win against six losses. John Fiser's 20 points paced the Panthers, who made good on 28 of 34 shots from the foul line.

Tech Wins

Carnegie Tech's victory broke an eight game losing streak. The Tartans' last win also was over Slippery Rock. Frank Sobolewski paced the Tartans with 15 points, 13 of them scored in a 10-minute period in the first half.

Washington & Jefferson's win over Fenn was its eighth straight. The Presidents, leading throughout, were paced by Larry Rombowski with 21 points and Ron Salvetti with 20.

Jim McClellan scored 25 points to pace St. Francis to its victory over Geneva at Altoona. It was a tight game for most of the first half, but after taking the lead at 26-25 St. Francis pulled ahead fast. It was the Frankies' seventh victory against four losses and the third defeat for Geneva, which has won eight.

Juniata Wins

Barney McLaughlin scored four points in the overtime period to lead Juniata to its win over Lycoming. Lycoming, behind at 57-50 with four minutes remaining, almost pulled it out of the fire with eight straight points. That gave the Warriors a 58-57 lead with 59 seconds left. McLaughlin saved it for the Indians with a tying foul shot. Both teams are 5-5 for the season.

California Teachers made it a game in the first half against Fairmont at the West Virginia team's home court. Fairmont led, 4-40 at the intermission and opened the flood gates in the second half.

No Gas; British Race Bikes Instead

CHESTER, England (UP) — British automobile racing drivers, unable to hold the annual 150-mile Chester Motor Trial Sunday because of gasoline rationing, switched to a 7½ mile bicycle race and Brus White—who usually drives an Aston-Martin car — won it.

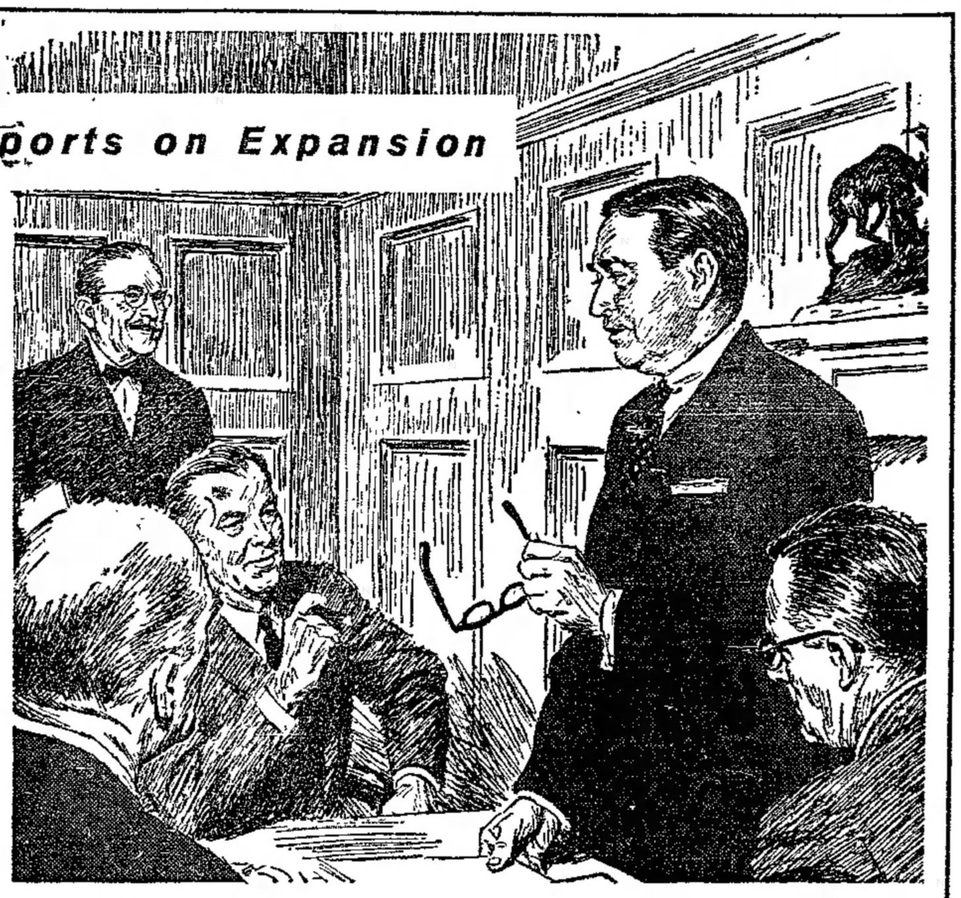
Fairless Reports on Expansion



5,096,060 Tons of New Steel Capacity in '56

Just one year ago, in announcing that the country's steel companies were speeding up increases in their steelmaking capacity, I said that "during the next three years they plan to build 15 million tons of new capacity." The estimated cost was $3 billion.

Now, 12 months later, I am able to report that these company programs of expansion are moving ahead on schedule.

With the addition of 5 million tons of new capacity in 1956 America now is equipped to produce 133.5 million tons of steel annually.

That is more than 40 per cent of the total for the whole world.

Steel Gauges Nation's Strength

There is a measure of comfort for all of us Americans in that fact, since steel is one of the important yardsticks of national strength. No other country can approach our production of this basic metal.

Russia has the next largest capacity but this is only about one third of the American total.

The need for accelerated expansion is even more apparent now than one year ago. Many new and pressing requirements for steel have emerged since my report of last January.

Suez brought into bold relief the urgent need for a larger fleet of tankers. Roadbuilders broke ground on the $33 billion interstate superhighway system. Our country's school building program is being speeded up.

Defense Cannot Be Neglected

And the national defense program in these times of world tension requires many new types of steel.

Meanwhile, the normal demand for steel continues to grow with the rise in population and in living standards.

In 25 years the country's population has increased by 36 per cent and the per capita use of steel in America in that period has gone up from 469 pounds to 1,390 pounds, or 196 per cent.

Keeping abreast of all these added needs for steel in our country is the job and responsibility of the steel companies. Yet every American has a stake in that job because without enough steel in the years ahead the nation could not maintain its world position.

But if the steel companies are to maintain the current pace, let alone to accelerate it, all of us should be aware of the difficult hurdles they have to clear in achieving this goal.

Vast Capital Must Be Raised

The biggest hurdle of all is that of raising the capital funds to build their new plants and facilities. That calls for profits sufficiently attractive to hold the confidence of investors and lenders.

Unfortunately, many companies in steel and other industries are suffering from a malady known as "phantom profits"—figures which must be reported as profits subject to taxes but are really costs of doing business.

This comes about because our Federal Tax Laws make no allowance for the effects of inflation. Under these laws an industrial company is allowed, in theory, to save up enough money over the life of a piece of equipment to replace it when it wears out.

But the catch is that the company is allowed to recover only the original cost of that piece of equipment, whereas the actual cost of replacing it may be three or four times as much, because of inflation.

Thus, the amount recovered through "depreciation" under the present tax laws is not nearly enough to pay for replacing the worn-out equipment. Consequently American industry must use a substantial part of its so-called profits just to replace its facilities as they wear out — just to stand still.

Constant Supply Is Essential

This seriously impairs industry's ability to expand as rapidly as it should in the national interest. That is especially true in the steel industry because steelmaking equipment is enormously costly and has an unusually low rate of depreciation.

But with continued understanding and support of the American public, this nation's many individual steel companies will surely succeed in the effort to keep steel always available for the thousands of purposes it serves. America and steel must grow together.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, Mary C. Kitto, who passed away three years ago, January 20, 1954.
She is gone but not forgotten
And as dawns another year
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of her are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
Sadly missed by the Family.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Alexander Spirko, who died one year ago today, January 21, 1956.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you.
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear father,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by Wife, Sons and Daughters

In memory of Warren Marshall, who died two years ago today, January 21, 1955.
The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But the memory of those we love,
Will never fade and die away.
Sadly missed by Virginia and Ted

Girl Located In Connecticut

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A Mt. Lebanon girl missing from her home since last Wednesday was located Sunday night in Fairfield, Conn.

A. R. Van Vorst, assistant sales manager of Aluminum Company of America, said his daughter, Sue Alice, 15, was found with the help of information provided by a salesman.

Howard Davies, Castle Shannon, a salesman for Anaconda Wire and Cable Co., sat next to the girl on a plane to New York Wednesday night.

When he returned home during the weekend, Davies read of the girl's disappearance in a newspaper and recognized her from her published photograph. He contacted Van Vorst, who then sought the aid of former friends in the Connecticut city in the belief she may have gone there. The family formerly lived in Fairfield.

Russia Explodes Nuclear Weapon

WASHINGTON (UP) — Russia has exploded another nuclear weapon, the Atomic Energy Commission announced Sunday.

The reminder of Soviet power came only two days after three U.S. 52 H-bombers circled the world non-stop in a demonstration of American strength.

The AEC said Russia exploded the nuclear weapon Saturday.

The terse announcement gave no indication whether the test involved an atomic or hydrogen weapon or its size.

The blast apparently was the fifth in Russia's current test series that Russia announced it had completed. The series started in August.

Your Health—

Oversleeping Is Bad As Your Overeating

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M D

Whether you're a night owl or an early bird, you need your sleep. And if you're in good health, mental and physical you don't have to take sleeping pills to get it!

How much sleep you need and when you should get it, of course, is an individual problem. There are some guideposts, however, for you can get too much sleep just as easily as you can get too little.

It doesn't matter whether you sleep on your back, abdomen or sides. You'll sleep just as soundly in any position, although you may find one more comfortable than others.

Generally, your sleep isn't quite as sound as you may think. You'll be oblivious to it, but you'll probably be partially awake for about half a minute each hour.

Most likely you'll toss about, shifting your position anywhere from 20 to 40 times a night. The more you shift, you can readily see the less sound will be your sleep.

Inability to sleep soundly no matter how irritable and cross it may make you, will not cause any organic disease. A few restless nights, however, might easily reduce your efficiency, both mentally and physically. You need your sleep to live a normal healthy life.

Oversleeping, on the other hand, might be just as bad as overeating.

It may even have about the same effect as too little sleep. You'll feel sluggish and foggy and both your mental and physical reactions probably will be slow.

Mental exhaustion however, is another matter. I'll discuss this in a later article.

If you want an unusual amount of sleep I think your trouble probably may be sluggish digestion and lack of exercise.

You suburban commuters might do well to walk to and from the railroad station each day instead of having your wife drive you those few blocks. You'll probably sleep better if you do — and your wife probably can sleep a little later.

Harry Belafonte Riding Crest on Calypso Craze

NEW YORK (UP)—Harry Belafonte, riding on the crest of the new calypso craze, wants no part of it.

"Listen, I'm a singer, period. I sing all types of folk material—English, Irish, Israeli, from every section of the world. I don't believe in being cultish and I don't want to be known as the guy who put the nail in the coffin of rock and roll," he said.

"As a matter of fact, my two big records right now aren't calypso at all—even though everybody seems to have hung that tag on them. One, 'Jamacia Farewell' is a West Indian folk ballad. The other, 'Day-O,' is a West Indian work song."

It's no secret in the trade that Belafonte, who has been around for 10 years, suddenly has emerged as number one challenger to Elvis Presley for the title of hottest singer in the business.

According to RCA Victor, Belafonte's recent album of calypso in the L-P and E-P versions has gone over the million point in sales a phenomenal mark for a long-playing waffle. Each of his other albums — "Mark Twain" and "Belafonte" — has moved past the half-million pole.
